ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Maxwell Anderson is one of the most prolific writers of the modern era. Since the day in 1923 when he left journalism to write drama, he has contributed more than thirty plays.

Of his recent works, the best known are 'Joan of Lorraine' and 'Anne of a Thousand Days', both of which were successfully produced on Broadway during the post-war period. In 1954 his dramatization of 'The Bad Seed' received wide acclaim from Broadway critics.

ABOUT THE PLAY

'High Tor' was the 1937 choice for the Drama Critics Circle Award. It consists of a pleasant blend of high and low comedy written around a plot symbolic of a man's struggle for independence from the materialistic spirit of the age.

Throughout, the author utilizes his poetic talents to recount a tender love story between the hero, Van Van Dorn, who owns High Tor, and Lise, the ghostly guardian of the mountain. Together with the crew of an ancient Dutch exploration vessel, she has been marooned on High Tor for three hundred years.

It is because of her unrealistic hopes for a final rescue that she is able to effect some communication with the equally unrealistic Van Dorn who is unwilling to accept the inevitable.

PROGRAMME

The play will be performed in two movements. At the end of the first movement, the curtain will be lowered to indicate a ten minute intermission.
